THE AVIAN NUTRITIONISTS

Each season brings a new challenge to our wild birds. As cooler weather arrives and the leaves begin to change, so do our wild birds.

The Autumn moult is a demanding time for birds and therefore they require foods that are high in fats, such as Suet Dumplings, in order to give them the energy they require to replenish their feathers.

Sunflower Hearts and Peanuts are also a great source of energy but remember that Peanuts should always be fed from a wire mesh feeder. Dried Mealworms and Dried Calciworms provide essential insectivorous proteins and a replacement for the worms that are now deep underground.

Finally, don't forget to provide clean, fresh water every day.
